HOW CLOR AND O'HARA WERE CAUGHT

The arrest of two men in Michigan last week, charged with holding up train No. 1, the Overland kimited, at Rees, Utah, on January 2nd, created considerable interest here. Through the courtesy of Mr. W. G. Dawe, we are able to give the particulars of the arrest as told by the Deckerville Recorder, published at Deckerville, Sanilac county, Michigan, in its issue of March 10th. The Recorder is published near the home of the accused men and the following account is doubtless correct:

Victor Clor, Jr. and Bryan OHara of Palms are under arrest charged with the murder of a negro porter on a Southern Pacific train at Pees, Utah, on January 2, at which time the suspects are said to have relieved the passengers of about $1,400 in money and a quantity of jewelry estimated at $1600.

Ever since the daring hold-up on Jan. 2, eight Pinkerton detectives have been working on the case and for the past three weeks nembers of the detective force have been in company with Clor in Detreit while another has been shadowing O'Hara at his home in Paln s.

One day last week the detective representing himself as a real estate man called at the O'Hara home looking for a farm. Monday morning the detective visited the O'Hara home and informed him that he had located a buyer for the farm and requested him to be home at 11:30 o'clock to meet the prospective purchaser and then

About 11:30 Sheriff Graham and another detective called at the farm and inquired for a real estate man whom they represented as an embezler and asked O'Hara if he would go with them to a dist in identifying the man. O'Hara consented and they drove to Palms in search of him. Entering the hotel at Palms young O'Hara was brought face to face with Engineer Rouse and Conductor Middleton of the Southern Pacific train. As soon as O'Hara saw his accusers he made a bolt for liberty but every exit was covered by an officer and O'Hara was ordered to throw up his hands. He was positively identified by the train men and hurriedly taken to the courty jail at Sandusky. Immediately after his arrest Detectve Burn, commuicated with the office s who were shadowing Clor and le was taken into custody at Mt. Clemens where he was jailed.

O'Hara was taken before Justice Allen at Sandusky and underwent a severe sweating, admitting that he was at a place called Lingham Canyon, Utah, 30 miles from the scene of the hold up of Jar. 2 but denied all knowledge of the affair. The Utah authorities were immediately informed of the arrests and an officer is speeding to Michigan to claim the victims.

It is said that members of the detective force have been in close touch with the suspects for weeks, one of them being a constant companoin and room mate of Clor in Detroit for weeks. The men are of very respectable families and their arrest on so serious a charge is causings the most intense excitement. O'Hara has a widowed mother who is confined to her home one mile north of Palms with a broken arm.

KNOCKING THE KNOCKER

The "knocker" is a person we all can well spare. He is known in every town and community. That Textile, Tex. has had its experience w th him may be inferred from the following editorial by Thomas Daniel, editor and publisher of that paper in which he hits the "knocke," in almost every form and on his most vulnerable spots.

"In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth. Later he created man and woman. Next the "knocker' butted in without an invitation. And he has been butting in ever since just at the time when his presence is least desirable. He first appeared in the form of a serpent, and he has been appearing in the form of most everything from a grasshopper to a donkey ever since. When he can't find anything else to knock on, he growls about his wife's cooking and eases himself by telling his children what good for nothing brats they are. He knocks on the church because there happens to be people almost as worthless as he is in it. and he knocks on the saloon keeper, because perhaps, he can't get booze or credit. He knocks on the school, when, in some instances he has no children to send. He knocks on the postmaster because just when he imagines he ought to. He knocks on one neighbor because he is successful and on another because he is unfortunate. He knecks on his town constantly and keeps a chunk of discouragement handy to throw at every public a sore spot against the world, with trustcontrolled products. because he feels he has not been treated properly. He knocks on his local paper, because it isn't as big as the Chicago Tribune, but roars long and loud when he is asked to pay his subscription. Knocking is like small pox; it's contagious. Most any man is likely to be guilty of the offense ocasionally, but he ought to go out and kick his self every time he errs in this way. Don't heed the knocker; turn a deaf ear to his tale of woe, least you be repeating it. Knocking is an expensive pastime. It has destroyed friendship, broken up homes, changed the course of railways, blocked important legislation, depopulated cities, and played "Old'Nick" ever since the devil broke into the Garden of Eden and knocked the apple off the tree, you have the "knocking habit," Chite, are being raised about forty now is a good time to take it out inches. and bury it so deep that forty tons must knock, turn your lammer on hempen cores. the tariff bill, Cannon, Roosevelt. your neighbor the glad hand and French capital.

So natimes an applicat arises and kindly tells the world that it is growing better all the time. He places before us pictures of savagery from the dim past and asks us to contrast those with the present glories of an advanced civilization; and we feel pleased with urselves and the world and with the law of evolution.

But then again, the pi-ture is marred. The illustrations are dispelled. From the world of reality comes disturbing reports that do not seem to harmonize with the pleasant notes from the harp of optimism. Just now such discords are heard both from Lond in and paris.

From London comes the statement that the English home office has found a "steady increase of crime during the past ten years." This is no figure of speech. From Paris comes the report that both the police and the clergymen are 'appalled and puzzled over the constant increase of crime committed by children and youth." Some illustrators are given of this statement. A boy cly ten years old has appeared as a leader of a gang of thieves. He was brought before the police canmissioners on a charge of stealing, but in consideration of his youthfulness he was released. A great deal has been said bout the evil influences of prison life in company with hardened criminals. But this boy did not go to prison. He was set free, and yet, in a few days he oragnized a gang. Goods disposed for sale outside the shops disappeared as if by magic, and every hour of the day the trademen were seen harrying to the police commissary to report losses. A couple of lads were caught. They con fessed, adding that their gang was under the control of the boy. Brought before the police commissary the lad gave vent to lamentations over the capture of his gang at the moment when it was about to distinguish itself.

"In a very short time," he cried "we would have made our 39 16 fortunes, as I had discovered a way of exploiting the markets. Well, I am eaught, and so much the worse for us all!"

Another gang of boys under 1 00 sixteen was operating with the help of a trained magpie. The bird was perched on the wrist of one of the boys and did tricks, bowed, danced and chattered. The shopin o keeper was amused. Suddenly the magpie flew up and perched somewhere out of reach. Some of the boys and the shopkeeper started hunting for the bird and while the hunt was going on the till was 10 to emptied. A whistle called the 1 00 bird down, and escaped. -Bonanza.
